WHO WE ARE
American Jewish World Service (AJWS) is the leading Jewish organization working to promote human rights and end poverty in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean.

WHAT WE DO
AJWS has a three-part strategy to advance human rights and multiply our impact: We fund 522 social change organizations in 17 countries working on four key areas of human rights. We accompany our grantees with coaching, skills building and resources, and bring them together to scale up their work and strengthen social movements. Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill and internationally, we advocate for laws and policies that promote human rights and strengthen our efforts to combat poverty, oppression and injustice worldwide.

“Jewish tradition teaches that if a person saves one life, it is as if they’ve saved the entire world. By that measure... [AJWS has] saved the world many, many times over.”
—PRESIDENT BARACK OBAMA

OUR ISSUES
Sexual Health and Rights
We support 180 organizations empowering women, girls and LGBTQI+ people to stop violence and discrimination and live with dignity, safety and health.

Civil and Political Rights
We aid 164 activist organizations to advance civil and political rights around the globe—promoting justice under the law for all and the right to be heard, vote and participate in political life.

Land, Water and Climate Justice
We support 169 grassroots groups fighting the climate crisis and protecting the land, water and natural resources that rural and Indigenous people depend on for survival.

Disaster and Humanitarian Response
In the wake of earthquakes, hurricanes, droughts, epidemics and other crises, we support grassroots organizations to provide relief, save lives and build resilience for the future.

“AJWS was our first core funding, and that has set the pace for everything we’ve built since. You were not only giving us money—you came to us as partners.”
—LUCY WANJIKA NJENGA, Founder of AJWS grantee Positive Young Women Voices in Kenya

WHY WE PROMOTE HUMAN RIGHTS

AJWS strives to overcome the root causes of oppression and inequality by supporting grassroots organizations and social movements for justice. We fund grantees to fight for people’s rights—to live without violence, to influence the laws and norms that govern their societies, and to freely express their full identities.

Beyond grantmaking, we serve as thought partners to our grantees and help them improve their organizations and programs. We also support our grantees to form and participate in social movements—gaining the power to transform society on a much larger scale.

Meanwhile, AJWS staff on Capitol Hill and a volunteer base of rabbis, Jewish leaders and supporters advocate for Congress, the White House and global bodies like the UN to uphold the rights of marginalized people everywhere.
